Aaron's House ... created from an idea of one young man. Made possible by the Aaron J. Meyer Foundation, Inc. and support from everywhere.

A place of education, music, peace, serenity, and companionship, Aaron's House is home to young men who are regaining their lives in recovery since 2007.

Because it works, Aaron's House has inspired the creation of Connect House Sober Living for Women, Pres House Intentional Living Next Step Apartments for men and women, and Live Free Wellness and Recovery a Student Organization at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. Include a healthy home environment in your life and see what one day at a time is like when you live with people like you.

Home: a safe place right in the midst of our anxious world.

Home, a job, friends like you ... the life of a college student.

Recovery is part of your life when you live at Aaron's House.

AARON'S HOUSE MADISON, WI

A unique peer support opportunity for young men who commit to a recovery lifestyle including formal education, employment, and healthy living.

A project of the Aaron J. Meyer Foundation, Inc.

Living at Aaron's House

Every facet of your life is personal. Our Director of Resident Services, House Mentor, you, and your support network collaborate to build a Personal Lifestyle Plan for your life at Aaron's House.

Student Residents enroll for college courses at any of the nearby schools: Madison College, UW, Edgewood, Herzing ... there are dozens of choices. Aaron's House staff connects you with your school of choice. The amount of time your education commitment requires is determined by your plan.

Employment matters to young people in recovery. Aaron's House staff helps you navigate the employment process to land a job that matches your life and adds to your job success record.

Weekly check-ins focus on your Personal Lifestyle Plan and on peer support. Your recovery work is a daily endeavor you also undertake outside of the house with 12 step meetings and/or professional counselors. There is no counseling provided at Aaron's House.

Curfews are not part of life at Aaron's House. Responsibility to yourself and your housemates and accountability are your obligations. Adult choices are within your ability in recovery.

Scholarships of a modest amount are available to qualified Residents through a generous donation by the family of Conor Dunleavy. The award is a recognition and incentive for academic achievement.

Collegiate Recovery Housing

Aaron's House Resident Qualifications

Young men 18-26 years old, working a program of recovery, with at least 90 days sobriety, and committed to higher education and employment are welcome to apply to live at Aaron's House. (Applications are available at <http://aaronshousemadison.org> or email drs@aaronshousemadison.org.) This is a lease-free obligation which we trust will be home to you for at least a school year. People committed to long-term recovery will take advantage of the opportunity Aaron's House provides to grow in recovery together with their peers, give of themselves to the community, and transition to other housing options and the next chapter of their lives as their sober days grow into sober months.

Pres House Apartment—Next Step Intentional Living is an ideal progression destination for Student Residents. Email: ginger@preshouse.org
